Colleges Are Renamed; No Changes in Courses

The College of Arts and Sciences and the College of Applied Arts and Sciences are now the College of Liberal Arts and the College of Arts and Sciences.

Formal renaming was approved by the Board of Regents at its regular meeting Thursday.

"It's simply a matter of adopting the titles generally used across the country," President Bail explained in announcing the move.

The faculty, in a vote last week, approved the renaming unanimously, he said.

"For all practical purposes," the President said, "the change will involve no more than the reprinting of official forms."

There are no building inscriptions or otherwise permanent designations bearing the old titles, he pointed out.

Curriculums will remain the same.

"It's something that has been unofficially accomplished over the years," he said. "This is merely a formal recognition."

At the meeting the Board also authorized the President to increase the '60-'61 library budget by $20,000 from an unallocated actual income. It will cover adjustments in operating expenses ($8,000) and will allow an increase in book and periodical acquisitions ($12,000).

Approximately $25,000 has been authorized by the Regents for remodeling and installing a chemistry lab in Room 451-53, Adm., a bacteriology lab in Room 330, and a lecture room in 303-5. The

Speaker Suggests Three-Point Policy

By Bill Vogt

Dr. George Blankston, speaking at the second program of the Institute of World Affairs, said the US must strengthen the Organization of American States in order to deal with the Latin American dilemma.

Dr. Blankston, professor of political science at Northwestern University, and State Department political analyst of Latin American affairs, concentrated on the present Cuban crisis in his lecture.

A three point program for action in Latin America was presented:

1. The US must move on as multilateral a basis as possible, treating all countries equally.
2. Foreign policy must not descend to personal reaction to activities carried on by such men as Castro.
3. A positive approach must be taken, informing Latin American countries of what the U.S. is for rather than what it is against.

Dr. Blankston said an international police force would be needed to implement OAS activities.

He added that $500,000,000 has been earmarked for aid to Latin American countries with the exception of Cuba.

"If this economic aid were to include Cuba," Dr. Blankston said, "Castro would be washed away in his own revolution."

Lester D. Mallory, Deputy Secretary of State for Inter-American Affairs, originally scheduled to speak at the event, was unable to appear due to official commitments.

Dean of Administration will request bids and award the contract. The costs will be charged to the Building and Site Budget, '60-'61.

Three BS degrees will be discontinued: home economics and journalism, home economics and retailing, and radio-tv journalism.

The next meeting of the Board of Regents will be Nov. 17.

Excess Words Eliminated in Edited Catalog

A "greatly simplified" and updated catalog will soon be turned over to printers for publication.

December 1 has been set as the deadline for all deans and department heads to have completed their revisions for the 1961-63 description of the University of Omaha, President Bail said this week.

"We're going to eliminate a lot of repetitious wording in the course descriptions this time," he stated.

"When you title a course 'American National Government' there is no reason to follow it with a description like: 'a study of the national government of America,'" he pointed out.

Course prerequisites and the class standing necessary will be listed, however, he added.

Other changes to be found when the catalog is delivered "sometime next spring" include a revised tabulation of available degrees.

"Lack of interest has forced the elimination of a few degrees," but Dr. Bail emphasized that these do not involve the dropping of any specific classes.

"The classes themselves are receiving the students but the eventual degrees are not," he explained.

Any changes in individual department requirements would be made by the respective deans and department heads, he said.

Homecoming Dance, Torch Parade Set For Tonight

Classes will not be excused for the pep rally today at 11:30 or for the parade following it. All classes will be held as usual.

President Milo Bail commented, "Attendance at pep rallies when classes are excused is no greater than attendance when classes are not excused."

Following is a calendar of the Homecoming events:

Friday
11:30—Pep Rally at Pep Bowl or Fieldhouse.
12—Parade through downtown Omaha.
6:00—Torch Parade at Pep Bowl.
9:00—Dance at Peony Park.
Saturday:
2:00—Game vs. Emporia at OU Stadium.

Crowning of the Princess will be during the torch ceremony at the Pep Bowl. The informal (cocktail dress) dance is Friday night, as in the past.

Students Elect Council, Officers

Twelve class officers, four Student Council members and the Homecoming princess were elected by an all-school vote Wednesday.

Freshman Student Council members are Sue Weidenhamer, Sue Morris, Ken Allen and Jerry Callahan.

Officers of the senior class are Rod Hansen, president; Bill Moulton, vice president, and Carol Robinson, secretary.

The Homecoming princess will be revealed at the Torch parade in the Pep Bowl tonight.

Split Days to Help Growth Problems

"Morning students" and "afternoon students" will soon be definitive terms at the University of Omaha, just as "day students" and "night students" are separate bodies now.

Beginning next fall class scheduling will be aimed at balancing the enrollment over the entire day, President Milo Bail announced this week.

"We have no choice," he said. Registration this year far exceeded prior estimates, he explained, and "every indication points to continued increases in the future."

A space problem?—"Far from it," Dr. Bail emphasized. "Walk down one of our halls at 3 p. m. any day. You could shoot a rifle from one end to the other with no danger of hitting a student—or a faculty member for that matter."

More Room Use

Present facilities, though appearing overcrowded during the morning, are "conspicuously empty" for most of the afternoon, Dr. Bail pointed out.

"The only answer is more complete utilization of classrooms," he said.

By scheduling the larger, basic courses as late as 4:30 p. m. Dr. Bail indicated that increases such as the one experienced this year could be taken in stride for "several years to come."

In answering the most obvious objection, the President predicted student reactions would be "far better than you may first believe."

"Most of those who shy away from afternoon classes claim that job opportunities are too slim in the morning," he said.

CAE Also Changes

Using the new Crossroads Shopping Center as an example, he cited the "rapidly increasing number of retail stores who are crying for part-time help."

"You can't tell me they won't be needing morning workers," he said.

The College of Adult Education is also gearing for a revamped schedule with earlier and more frequent classes on tap for the night schoolers.

In following a pattern widely accepted in the East, Dr. Bail proposed a starting time of 5:30 p. m., providing a right-after-work arrangement.

"I don't especially agree with this three hours in one night set-up now in operation," he said. "Breaking them down to two 75-minute sessions seems far more beneficial."

He said the change would be introduced next fall "on strictly an experimental basis."

One Need Remains

"I do feel, however, that it will go over big," he added.

Having outlined a partial solution to the bulging registration problems, Dr. Bail conceded one deficiency yet unfilled.

"I'm in desperate need of more qualified faculty members," he admitted. "We've made some tremendous improvements during the past dozen years—I think the enrollment jump reflects it—but we've got to continue the acquisition of top-notch instructors."

"And to do that we've got to have the money to pay them," he declared.

Kiewit Joins Regents

Peter Kiewit is a new member of the OU Board of Regents. The Omaha School Board announced his appointment earlier this week.

Mr. Kiewit manages the international activities of Peter Kiewit and Sons Co. (construction). He will fill the unexpired term of Daniel Campbell who designed recently because he moved out of the city limits.

The sixty-fifth King of Ak-Sar-Ben was awarded an honorary Doctor of Laws Degree by Omaha U in 1958.

Beyond-30

Cancer-Stick Carpet Need Not Continue

While rushing from class to class during my daily march to education a couple thoughts have occurred to me.

The first stemmed from a delayed announcement I received after it was proclaimed only through the official bulletin board on the first floor of the Administration Building.

Perhaps I'm in a definite minority but I simply don't have any classes in "Old Main" and consequently find it easy to neglect my so-called duty to romp over and gaze at the newsy bulletins posted.

With carbon paper selling at an all-time low, it doesn't seem outrageous to ask for equal time for us western students. We're being neglected.

The second falls into that category titled "little things that get on my nerves."

Having most of my classes on the second floor of this palace of learning and being a nicotine fiend, I find myself time and time again on the landing between floors with a smoking cancer stick still clutched between my fingers.

I'm not usually alone in the predicament, either.

There is a never-ending carpet of cigaret butts on that landing which ought to serve as a constant reminder that somebody goofed when they put the ash trays at the bottom of the stairs.

Granted it would be cheaper to move those fire-engine-red banners that proclaim the smoking ban but I doubt if it would get the job done.

Most students realize by now that puffing should cease on the first step but few remember it until they reach the halfway point. Hence the smudged butts on the floor.

Those nose-cones we have in the stairwell now are concealed behind the doors (when they're open) anyway. You just don't see them in time.

Even though it would be the extending of smokers' domain another 10 feet, I don't think the move would be detrimental to the defense of the second floor.

That area is smoke-filled already and the installation of butt cans would only be a gesture of tidiness.

Neither of these suggestions involve any terrific expense and could probably be carried out without extensive red tape or approval of the regents.

I really don't think it's asking too much.

Another Smudged Butt Joins the Crowd.

Many of today's built-in kitchen ovens have brushed nickel-chromium plated doors which add to their appearance and are easy to keep clean.

Staff Has 'Mutt and Jeff'

By Russ Grove

The third in a series on the Gateway and its staff.

This article tells a little about the long and short of the Gateway page editors.

The "short" classification describes Society Editor Gail Grove, and the "long" Feature Editor Karen Pope. These two editors share the same office and desk in the Gateway office and worry about the same things. Filling their respective pages by the deadline on Wednesdays.

Gail is five-foot-two, and a 19-year-old sophomore majoring in journalism.

Practical Experience

During summer vacation she received what she calls a practical education in journalism, working for the Council Bluffs Nonpareil. As a member of the Nonpareil's staff she wrote society news, handled all hospital news, wrote obituaries, proof-read copy and helped make up the church pages.

Continuing in society news on the Gateway, Gail says she will attempt to report all OU society and club news, and urges anyone with news to bring it to the Gateway office.

She doesn't know for sure what she will do after graduation, but plans to continue in journalism, either working as part of a newspaper or magazine staff.

The long of this article, Feature Editor Karen Pope, is five-foot nine, and an 18-year-old journalism major who plans to either teach high school journalism or work for a business magazine or house organ after she graduates. But like Gail she has plenty of time to decide. Both have two more years of school.

Karen's job is to scare up interesting articles on students, teachers, and clubs plus adding editorials and "Beyond-30" to fill out the Feature page.

Interpretation in Writing

Karen's assignments are designed to give her reporters a chance to write more interpretation in their stories, then they would be able to in a news story. She thinks a feature allows interpretation, whereas a news story must deal primarily with objective reporting.

Karen's Gateway work is just a part of her journalism duties. She is stenographer-assistant for Paul Peterson, head of the OU journalism department.

So that's the long and short of the Gateway editorial staff. From five-one to five-nine in the same office.

Next week we'll have an article about the people who dig up the information printed in the Gateway—our reporters.

Mutt and Jeff at Work.

Bootstrapper Works to Save Chilean Child with Leukemia

By Chuck Barry

A flight of mercy that may prolong the life of a five-year-old Chilean girl, suffering from leukemia, got underway last Monday.

Army Lieut. Col. James Leach, a bootstrapper at OU, received a letter dated Oct. 9 from his old friend Chilean Lieut. Col. Marcus Araya. Lieut. Col. Araya's daughter is dying from Cancer of the Blood.

In the letter, Col. Araya asked Lieut. Col. Leach to find a drug that is unobtainable in Chile. This necessary drug would prolong the life of little Maria Isabel Araya.

Col. Leach received the letter Monday about 1 p. m. and then contacted Miss Swanson and Capt. J. M. Davis of OU's AFROTC unit, which in turn referred him to Offutt Air Force Base.

The SAC base hospital found the needed drugs and Col. Leach picked them up and rushed them to a waiting plane. At 7:45 they left on the first leg of a seven thousand mile trek to Chili.

The drugs were flown to Chicago by a SAC plane and then transferred to a commercial airliner. The flight usually take about 23 hours but unfortunately, the commercial plane had trouble enroute to Florida and the life giving drugs were delayed for 24 hours.

In 1956 the Araya family lived in the United States where Col. Araya attended school. The Leach family became friends with the Chilians at that time.

'Angels Flight! Atten-hutt!' Brunnel, Perkins Command

Angels Practice Precision Marching

By Sharon E. Johnson

Angels Flight! Atten-hutt!!! is a command that demands the respect of all 40 coeds belonging to the auxiliary of Arnold Air Society.

The young women serve the University by practicing long hours to give snappy marching performances, by singing with Angeliars, by doing AF-ROTC office work in the cadet office, by socially holding teas and by general partying with Arnold Air.

This year the Flight is under the command of Flight Leader Marilyn Brunnel with the cooperation of Marching Angel Commander Lee Perkins.

A girl doesn't have to have wings or a halo to be an Angel on the OU campus. Angels are chosen by Arnold Air Society and the Angel Executive Council on the basis of activities, scholarship (2.3 cumulative) and personality.

The idea for Angels Flight originated with six girls and is now a Flight of 40 girls on the OU campus alone. The OU Flight went national as an affiliate of Arnold Air Society in 1953 at a National Conclave in Los Angeles, Calif. The OU Flight withdrew from national affiliation a few years ago.

Since the first Military Ball, held in the spring of 1952, Angels Flight has taken on many new projects and activities.

In the fall of 1952 Marching Angels came into being after Majors John Burnett and Robert Whaley saw a group of girls in precision marching on TV. At the next meeting they presented the idea and 15 enthusiastic girls practiced and performed at a basketball game.

Angels Flight, dismissed!

New Inter-Pep Committee Aims to Boost OU Spirit

By Pam Stronberg

An organization to promote school spirit at Omaha University? What school spirit? Facing skepticism like this, OU's newly reorganized Inter-pep Committee began the 1960-61 school year with a new Executive Council, interested members and a determination to disprove critics of OU's latent school spirit.

Officers of Inter-pep are Pam Stronberg, chairman; Marjorie Dohse, vice-chairman; and Georgia Clark, secretary-treasurer. Jack Malik serves as faculty advisor. Members of the committee represent each major interested organization on campus, all eager to promote campus spirit in all athletic and special events.

Pep rallies, cheerleading try-outs, athletic publicity, programs and half-time programs and social events involving sports fall under the jurisdiction of Inter-pep which, in turn, is responsible to the Student Council.

"So far," reports the Executive Council, "results have been excellent. School spirit has been on the upswing and we feel confident this spirit is contagious."

Under Inter-pep sponsorship Sioux City, Iowa, for the Morningside-OU game, a red arrow featuring pictures of athletes was hung in the Ouampi Room and pre-game and half-time programs have been presented at home football games.

Future plans include Homecoming events, Migration Day and activities to promote campus spirit for other sports. Long-range plans include an all-Freshman dance the first week of school next fall.

All OU students can have a voice in Inter-pep by submitting their suggestions and objections concerning the Inter-pep program to their organization's representative.

Inter-Pep Presents New Ouampi Cup

A new tradition will be inaugurated at the Homecoming torch parade tonight in the Pep Bowl. A Ouampi trophy will be presented to Dr. Milo Bail for Omaha University by the Inter-pep Committee.

The trophy will be a symbol of the OU school spirit and will be engraved with the names of all Ouampi's. A sketch of Ouampi is engraved on the side.

Pam Stronberg, president of Inter-pep, will make the presentation.

Lettermen Lead Wrestling Team

Wrestling will get underway a little later than usual this year due to the fact that eight of the team members are on the football squad.

The first practice will probably be on Nov. 21, when the football season ends.

According to Coach Russ Gorman, this will be the first year that he has been able to field a team that includes a letterman at every weight.

Gorman said that this year's crop of freshmen wrestlers looks good. Heading the list of frosh is Wayne Backes, a undefeated 167 pounder who hails from New Jersey. He was a All-State selection in his home state last season.

13 Lettermen

Bob Talman, captain of the team, is the only three year letterman on the team. Jim Howard, Dennis Fountain, John Emery and Marshall Nuzum are the two year lettermen.

Other lettermen include Bill Servais, Andre McWilliams, Louis Miloni, Keith Graybill, George Crenshaw, Nick Chiburis, Melvin Masek and Arch Ferguson.

Coach Gorman and his grapplers will compete in 12 meets this year, the first of which will be a quadrangler. Wrestling is not a Central Intercollegiate Conference sport and only one of the CIC schools, Ft. Hays, fields a wrestling squad. Ft. Hays is on our schedule.

This year's squad can boast only three seniors, Nuzum, Talman and Emery. The only juniors are Miloni and Howard. The remainder of the team is composed of underclassmen.

Wrestling Is New

Wrestling is a comparatively new sport at OU. The first wrestling team was fielded in the 1957-58 season when the record was a very respectable five wins 1 loss and one tie. Since then the records have been five wins and seven losses in 1958-59 and eight wins, three losses and one tie last year.

Coach Gorman said that the competition seems to get tougher every year and that he didn't feel that he could do much about predicting the outcome of the season at this time.

Hunting Time Is Finally Here

By Rich Less

As fall arrives and many sports minded people turn to football while others take to the field.

The earliest season to open was the migratory waterfowl which opened Oct. 8. Another attraction of fall is the pheasant season which opens tomorrow.

Hunters in the heavily populated sections of eastern Nebraska have done much complaining in the past concerning the crowded conditions of the hunting areas near home.

Two Rivers Open

The Nebraska Game Commission became aware of these conditions and resolved to do something about them. One result of their efforts is the newly opened Two Rivers Recreation Grounds near Venice, Nebr., just a few minutes from Omaha.

This area is a fishing and campground center in the summer months, but duck hunting takes over in the fall. The state provides blinds and decoys for hunting allowed on the Platte River.

Authorities say the pheasant population is up this year. Combine this fact with the advent of Two Rivers and the hunting picture should be looking up for Nebraska hunters this season.

St. Benedicts Leads

Defending champions St. Benedicts surprised a powerful Pittsburg St. team 41-19 to grab an early lead in the CIC race along with Ft. Hays and Emporia.

The winners play the losers in this week's action Ft. Hays, victors over Omaha U., will host Pittsburg.

The other two leaders are on the road. St. Benedicts travels to Washburn and Emporia is at Omaha. All three contests are Homecoming for the host teams.

OU Seeks First Win Loses to Ft. Hayes

Roger Sayers carries for Omaha U. against Fort Hays.

The University of Omaha football squad, looking for its first win of the season, faces Emporia State in the annual Homecoming attraction tomorrow afternoon.

Coach Al Caniglia has made several changes in the backfield for this week in hopes of achieving a victory.

Roger Sayers, a fleet-footed freshman halfback, has moved over to the number one left half back spot. Rounding out the backfield are freshman signal caller Garry Sindelar, George Payne and Wayne Backes.

Emporia has split in its first four contests this season. Last week they defeated Washburn 7-6 in the Central Intercollegiate Conference opener for both schools.

Omaha U. was defeated last Saturday by Ft. Hays, 19-18.

The contest was marred by miscues, OU lost the ball nine times on fumbles and interceptions. Omaha miscues set up all three of the Ft. Hays scores and halted a final threat by the Indians.

The team once more came out of the game in good physical condition and no line changes are planned for this week's game.

Emporia was the only team that OU managed to defeat last year and the Indians hope to continue their mastery in tomorrow's game. The Hornets fell before OU last year by 20-13 at Emporia.

The pressbox coaching set up will be used by Caniglia if the stadium phones are in working order, which they weren't last week. The system worked out satisfactorily at the Idaho State game two weeks ago.

Line Coach Don Watchorn labeled the Emporians as a tough defensive ball club.

Freshman Soccer

Sixty female freshman soccer players clashed in a demonstration of newly-learned soccer techniques as the three-team tournament resulted in triumph for the team coached by Mara J. Davis last Monday.

The first game was won on a field goal scored by Marcia Havlau. In the final and decisive game, it took a swarm of players in the closing minutes to maneuver the ball over the goal line for the vital two points which proved enough to secure the tournament championship.

Water Sports

The Water Sports Club will hold its first meeting next Sunday, Oct. 23, from 7 to 8:30 p. m. at the Jewish Community Center. All interested University women are invited to attend.
